

Cell phones would be awful used on planes. People are distracted and won't hear the announcements. How do we know it is safe while in flight? And what about the people that speak so loud the entire conversation is heard by everyone. Can we ever get some rest from these monsters?